MR. BEAVEN'S REPLY TO MR. W. WILSON.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—In your issue of the 26th I pointed out that if during the trial of that extraordinary case of Dunsmuir vs. The Times, it was claimed that as regards a grant of public money by the Government to the Foster Company, that my position and the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir's were identical, that it was incorrect, as I opposed the application and Mr. Dunsmuir did not, unless he changed his opinions and became a convert to mine, and that if he had done so I never heard of it. Instead of the Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir explaining in what manner our positions in this instance were identical and what justification existed for connecting my name with his conduct, Mr. Wilson, in the Colonist of the 29th, takes up the subject, and from the laudatory tone he assumes when speaking of Mr. Dunsmuir, and his untruthful reference to myself, evidently as Mr. Dunsmuir's advocate, and a poor one indeed he makes. It has been said that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." This is singularly exemplified in Mr. Wilson's advocacy, for if he is a reliable witness he fully proves my case when he asserts that "Mr. Dunsmuir took no part whatever in the matter," and that "I objected to Government aid for this road." I cannot, however, fully agree as to the correctness of this definition of Mr. Dunsmuir's conduct, but it shows that Mr. Dunsmuir never opposed the grant to Mr. Wilson's knowledge. Mr. Wilson is President of the Board of Trustees of the Company and should know if Mr. Dunsmuir had done so. Mr. Dunsmuir is a trustee, having become one in the early part of 1887, and I should like Mr. Wilson to say whether or not Mr. Dunsmuir was a member of the trustee board of management when the $2,000 was paid by the Government and received by the company and whether he opposed its reception.

Mr. Wilson endeavors to throw discredit on my assertion, "that it was suggested that a deputation principally composed of the members of the Legislature who were stockholders in the company, should wait upon the government upon the subject of the grant," by stating that under authority of a resolution the president of the company (that is himself) appointed Messrs. Henderson, D. W. Higgins, M. P. P., and W. Wilson, to wait upon the late Hon. W. Smithe with reference to a grant. This was subsequent to the suggestion I mentioned, and in no way disproves it, but confirms my statement that the appointment of a deputation to wait upon the government was discussed. I fully reiterate my assertion as to its composition, and challenge Mr. Wilson to deny it without a quibble. Mr. Wilson now claims that the proposed vote of censure upon me was meant jocularly. I should have thought even he would now have been manful enough to admit the error on that occasion, if he made a mistake, and from the instinct of a gentleman apologized; it would have been freely accorded and the subject would never have passed my lips even if necessary to justify an act of mine. However, one cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. As regards Mr. Wilson's references to Mr. Dunsmuir's conduct as a stockholder in the Foster Co. as compared with mine and other stockholders, I do not propose to discuss that now, as it is connected with a matter of no public interest, but of much moment to others. I paid one hundred cents in cash for every dollar's worth of the stock I held. I deny, however, Mr. Wilson's statement that the capital of the company is exhausted, as the capital stock of the company is $75,000 and only $67,500 has been disposed of. I know that the one dollar paid up stock sold at three dollars in this city, at the time the trustees were empowered to dispose of the company's stock in their hands I believe at par. What reason, therefore existed for the trustees to be out of funds having had saleable stock on hand unsold, for workmen subsequently to be unpaid, or for Mr. Dunsmuir to pay for more than for his stock? Thereby hangs many a tale and I can in a measure sympathise with Mr. Wilson's irritability, but he treads upon dangerous ground when he proposes to publicly discuss the affairs of the Foster Co. outside of that transaction which is a public one, viz., the grant by the Government of money to the company. Mr. Wilson closes his sycophantic remarks about Mr. Dunsmuir's enterprise with what he terms my sneering criticism, and draws his comparisons thereby. I do not wish to detract from either Mr. Dunsmuir's or Mr. Wilson's legitimate efforts, nor do I wish to be egotistic, but I can truthfully assert that in proportion to my means I have done as much, if not more, than either of those gentlemen to assist in the development of British Columbia's resources. I have spent the best years of my life in the province. I have risked every dollar I possessed, my credit and health in doing so, and there are many others who have done the same. I have known both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Dunsmuir during that period and the businesses they have been engaged in, and I can point out a dozen men, many of whom are now poor and bent with age and hard work, who have done more for Victoria and the province in proportion to their means than both of them combined. I trust if Mr. Wilson can he will show how my conduct and Mr. Dunsmuir's were identical in the matter of the grant by the Government of $2000 to the Foster G. M. & M. Co., and I would suggest to Mr. W. Wilson, of the firm of W. & J. Wilson, Government street, that as there are several very respectable gentlemen in the province of his name, who no doubt would not wish to be connected with his letters, that in future he sign his name as "Swing Bridge" Wilson, or as "Conspicuous Failure" Wilson, as he was christened a few years ago by the Colonist newspaper. I am, yours obediently,

Robert Beaven.

C. P. Dixon, the young man who embezzled from the C. P. R. Co., at Portland in 1886, $3000 and skipped to Victoria, has been pardoned. About this there is a romance. Dixon's wife obtained a divorce shortly after her husband absconded, and returned to her home in Washington, D. C. Dixon, having gone back to Portland, was arrested and sentenced to three years in the Salem penitentiary. His ex-wife relented and returned to Salem and for a year and a half has devoted herself to obtaining her ex-husband's release. She has succeeded at last, and when Dixon stepped out she was at the prison gate to welcome him. They will be married again and remove to Denver.

Lost and Found.

H. B. Dart, an old resident of the province, when leaving the city on Wednesday night for Vancouver, on his way to New York State, where he proposed to pass the winter, discovered that he had lost his pocket book, containing a letter of credit for $3,800, $125 in cash and a number of valuable papers. He returned from Vancouver last night, but a diligent search failed to discover the lost treasure. After taking the usual precautions to stop payment, he this afternoon received a telegram from Purser Smith stating that the pocket book and contents had been found on board of the Yosemite and would be restored to him to-night. It is needless to say that Mr. Dart was greatly pleased and that his journey to the east will be at once resumed.

Sentences.

The following prisoners were sentenced in the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon.

Celeste Du Bois, found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses, three years in the penitentiary.

The prisoner was asked whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed. He replied that he was on the way to visit his parents when arrested and gave the mixture to Mr. Aaronson, but did not tell him that it was gold dust.

The Deputy Attorney General stated that prisoner was at one time a member of a gang of counterfeiters operating in Victoria.

Prisoner—That is a lie.

Horse-car lines here have stopped running. That enterprising paper, the Chicago Times, has been sued for half a million dollars damages for libel, by a railway company. It is not stated whether the corporation will apply for a change of venue to Victoria, but in all probability it will.

THE TIMES will not even suggest that those "who live in glass houses should not throw stones," but it challenges the World to substantiate its insinuations. The personalities of the article in question do not call for reply.

As a counter move to the action of the Dominion Government in increasing the export duty on Canadian pine logs, the Michigan lumbermen are agitating for the passage of a bill doubling the import duty on Canadian lumber.

A bag containing 1,100 sealed one ounce letters, mailed to parties in Canada, were recently taken over to the United States from Montreal and mailed there, to avoid paying the difference between Canadian and United States postage.

The Quebec Government, taking into account the bad crop of the past season, and also to favor colinization, has decided to remit all the interest for five years to settlers who will pay up all they owe to the Crown Lands Department and take out their patents without delay.

Manchester Guardian.—The Tenth Hussars is the most aristocratic regiment in the whole Army. It boasts two Princes, an Earl, a Viscount, a couple of plain Lords, and a whole sheaf of Honorables. Prince Albert Victor has served three years with this regiment, and has already attained the rank of Captain.

Lord Newborough has made an eccentric provision in his will, namely, that after a time his body shall be taken up and re-interred in an old monastery at Bardsey Island, off Carnarvonshire, where it is said, some 20,000 saints lie buried. These 20,000 must have been importations, for the island is only two miles long and one mile broad and supports less than a hundred people.

Manchester Guardian: The sale of Savernake by the Marquis of Ailesbury to Sir Edward Guinness is the biggest transaction in real property in England since the sale of Northumberland House. Savernake has gone for £700,000; the price given by the Board of Works for Northumberland House was $750,000. This is said to be the largest cheque ever written. Lord Ailesbury recently sold one of his smaller estates for a quarter of a million.

Toronto Mail: Mr. Blake has written to the secretary of an Imperial Federation Club in the County of Oxford defining his position on that question. Many years ago, in dealing with the higher politics of Canada, Mr. Blake suggested that some sort of Imperial federation might be practicable. But men and things have moved rapidly since that time, and he is of opinion that it is now too late for Imperial Federation of any sort.

About 100,000,000 feet of lumber are now piled in the yards at the Chaudiere, Ottawa, and what to do with it is the question which is troubling the lumbermen and the export firms to whom the lumber belongs. All the summer ocean freight rates have been so high that the export firms have not made any large shipments, either of English deals or board lumber for South America or Australia. This lumber, usually shipped shortly after it is sawn, is this season at the Chaudiere, filling the yards to overflowing. Unless this 100,000,000 feet is shipped before next spring there will not be much room to spare to pile the first portion of next spring's cut.

MR. BLAKE RECANTS.

Some years ago the Hon. Mr. BLAKE delivered what he was pleased himself to describe as a "disturbing speech," at Aurora, a municipality in the constituency he then represented, in which he discussed the future relations of the Dominion to the empire. His utterances on that occasion were the first declaration by a public man in Canada in favor of an abandonment of the present colonial dependence for some closer federation with the mother country or the extension of the treaty-making power to the Dominion. In the interim, however, Mr. BLAKE has changed his opinion on this question, as the following reply to an invitation to speak on the subject at Ingersoll will show:

TORONTO, Nov. 16, 1888.

DEAR SIR,—I am honored by your letter of yesterday inviting me to speak at Ingersoll on the subject of Imperial Federation.

Being at present unable to take an active part in political affairs, I have been obliged to decline kind proposals from several quarters to discuss public questions.

But were it otherwise, I could not properly accept an invitation from a branch of the League.

It is true that many years ago I indulged the hope that the Canadian people might be induced to interest themselves more deeply in their national future, and that there might yet be time to create a feeling in favor of Imperial Federation.

I felt that the difficulties were even then enormous; that the drift was adverse; and that delays were dangerous.

My suggestion was thought to be made too soon.

It was, perhaps, even then too late.

At any rate it was coldly received, and we drifted on.

In my poor opinion the drift has continued adverse; and, apart from this, very much has occurred, here and elsewhere, tending to convert difficulties into impossibilities. I was obliged to decline requests to identify myself with the recent movement, both for the reason given, and also because I had not, either as a Canadian or a citizen of the Empire, any sympathy with some of the views prominently brought forward by chief supporters of the movement.

For example, to omit other and fundamental questions, I do not think it either desirable or possible to restrict the importation of the masses of England, even though this might at once raise rents there and prices here.

Yet I rejoiced that the question had at last, however late, been taken up by men of influence; I felt that discussion might be useful, and perhaps even fruitful; and I decided that, if I could not help, I would not for a season say anything which might by possibility do the slightest hurt.

I have therefore remained silent hitherto, but, looking at the course of events, I feel myself free, and perhaps even bound, now to say that I cannot participate in this movement on any lines which I have seen so far indicated.

Yours faithfully,
EDWARD BLAKE.

Benj. E. Swayzie, Esq., Ingersoll.

THE "TRUE" JOURNALIST.

One of the most accurate ways of measuring a man is by the size of the hole that he crawls into. The Vancouver World has dropped any further attempt at defining the "true journalist" and essays another role, which is quite consistent with its character. This time the World threatens to tell some real or imaginary "secrets," at least that is what is inferred from the following paragraph: "We are not giving away secrets at present, and will draw a veil over the fakir business, of which we personally know very little—only a little bird has whispered several things into our ears." If the World has any "secrets" to tell it would be quite as honorable to tell them as to threaten to do so. What is more it is at perfect liberty to tell all the secrets it's editors know, but so far as we are concerned they may as well learn that it is useless to attempt blackmail.

The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, it it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., D. D. S., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. ††

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system and when these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief. *

SUPREME COURT.

(Before Chief Justice Sir M. B. Begbie.)

THURSDAY, Nov. 29th.

The examination of the expert, B. F. Hyde was continued yesterday afternoon. Under cross examination witness said:

I have given evidence a great many times and have been subjected to a severe cross-examination. I have compared the writing on the threatening letters with others to see if the characteristics are similar. If you can show me writing more similar to that in the disputed letters, I can recognize that it is. I have not noticed the way in which the K's are made particularly. I have noticed the manner in which the I's are formed. There is nothing particularly noticeable about them. The T's are peculiar. I know nothing about Russian writing, can tell Russian in print. I noticed that the small m's were made in a variety of ways. I noticed that some of the m's ran down from the line. All the small m's did not. They were made in almost every way that it is possible to form the letter. The prisoner's small m's are more apt to be pointed at the top than rounded. The three parts of the m in Dr. Griffin's writing are generally of equal height. (Letter produced by Mr. Walker and handed to witness.) This letter contains some peculiarities that belong to the prisoner's hand and some do not. I would have to weigh both to say whether it was the prisoner's writing or not. I have compared the writing in this letter with that of the disputed letter. I do not think they are written by the same person. I have looked at the letter K in the word book. (Witness proceeded to explain the formation of the letter for the benefit of the jury.) When that K was made I do not think it was made as a V, and the down stroke afterwards added. I could tell if it had been so formed. The K in the word peak was not made in that way. I do not state this as an opinion but as a fact. (Proceeded to illustrate the formation of the letter to the jury.) I am sure it was made with one movement. I don't know how many movements of the hand Dr. Griffin's K's were made with. I can tell if I look. His ordinary small K is in the form of a capital, with two movements. (By request of a juror the letter K in the word Lopatecki, disputed letter, was placed under the glass.)

His Lordship—What are you trying to prove, Mr. Walker?

Mr. Walker—I am trying to shake the evidence of the expert. It is a question of fact for the jury.

His Lordship could not see the force of the examination at all. It was very similar to a case where a few marked coins were found in the pocket of a thief. It was not a point bearing on the case, that other coins not marked were also found. He thought if Mr. Walker continued his examination in this way he would never get through.

All the disputed letters are undoubtedly written in a feigned hand. I know that Dr. Griffin was charged with writing threatening letters when I examined the writing.

To Mr. Taylor—In regard to the letter K, found in the word Lopatecki, in one of the disputed letters, it has been made with a V stroke and a downward dash.

To the foreman—I have no doubt whatever that all the anonymous letters were written in a feigned hand, and I have very little doubt in saying that the hand that wrote the letters in exhibit signed by Dr. Griffin, also wrote the disputed letters.

Wellington J. Dowler, sworn—I am clerk of the police court, and received the exhibits. I remember receiving a small exhibit with a drawing of a black hand. After the closing of the investigation I locked up the depositions and exhibits until I delivered all in my possession to Mr. Irving. I have searched for the exhibit so which was stamped the black hand. Mr. Whyte called on me a few days ago and told me the exhibit was lost. I searched for it but could not find it.

To Mr. Walker—I was not subpoened to give evidence in this case until to-day.

To His Lordship—I remember clearly the sketch of the black hand. I don't know whether or not I gave it to Mr. Irving.

His Lordship—This does not prove the loss. It rather proves the safety of the document.

Deputy Attorney-General Irving deposed to receiving the depositions and exhibits from the police court, from Mr. Dowler, on Saturday. The parcel was rolled in paper with the ends open. Locked exhibits in the safe, where they remained until Monday morning, when they were brought to court. I made no search among the documents. I never saw the sketch myself. I placed the threatening letters in an envelope, to keep them together. The sketch was not with them.

Mr. Prevost, registrar of the court, deposed that the sketch was not in the bundle received by him.

His Lordship—I think there is reasonable proof of the loss of the paper, Mr. Taylor. You may give secondary evidence.

Atherton (recalled)—Among the papers I placed in the garret of the building at the corner of Broad and Yates streets, and from which I took whatever were in Dr. Griffin's handwriting some time this month, was a slip of paper with a black hand on it. It was a retracing, apparently from a piece of blotting paper with a black hand on it. I saw the piece of paper after I gave it to Mr. Cornell, in the police court. It was not a direct drawing, but an impression. It came out of Dr. Griffin's pocket.

Cross-examined by Mr. Walker—I put the papers in the garret some time in June. I don't know whether or not there is a black hand pointing up the stairs to Dr. Griffin's office. I saw no boys in the garret at any time. I did not make that drawing of the black hand.

Mr. Walker objected to the reception of the evidence. He claimed that there was no evidence to prove that the paper put in the garret could not have been changed.

W. J. Dowler, recalled—Remember the last document very well. It was marked "exhibit I." It was a small irregular shaped piece of paper, on which was a dim outline of a black hand, precisely the same, in size, direction and proportion as the hands on exhibits. The hand was not blacked within; it was not filled out in black.

To Mr. Walker—I do not remember comparing it with the hand on Mr. Howard's letter.

This closed the evidence for the prosecution.

Mr. F. G. Walker opened the defense by stating that only one side of this complicated case was before the jury. Three detectives from San Francisco were employed in the case and an unlimited amount of money spent to convict Dr. Griffin and send him to the penitentiary. Mr. Whyte was acting as a detective. Postoffice clerks and deputy sheriffs have been watching around with the intention to convict the prisoner. The main portion of the prosecution rested on the evidence of Atherton, who is not to be believed, and if his evidence is not worth anything the jury should discharge the prisoner. Two Greek scholars will give evidence for the defense, and it will be proved that the letter handed to Mr. Hyde in his cross-examination was not written by the prisoner.

J. J. Shinabarger, sworn—I am foreman in the Standard office. I know Mr. Lopatecki's writing. I have seen him write. (Letter produced.) This is Mr. Lopatecki's handwriting.

Mr. Taylor—I understand we can call Mr. Lopatecki in rebuttal of this evidence.

Mr. Walker—I shall have no objection.

Witness, continuing—These four letters (produced) are in Mr. Lopatecki's handwriting.

Cross-examined by Deputy Attorney-General: I received these papers as copy from the Standard. Part of this copy I received from Mr. Lopatecki himself. One or two pieces were taken from his book. I have been with the Standard ever since it changed to an evening paper, about the 6th of August. I was in New Westminster before I came here, before that was in California where I learned my trade. I never met Dr. Griffin in my life. Three days ago I met Mr. Walker and he asked me if I had any objection to coming to court as a witness. I told him I could recognize Mr. Lopatecki's handwriting. I have seen the papers submitted to me before. After they passed through my hands as copy they went in the waste box; the one piece, the day before yesterday.

Mr. Walker asked me if I could get him some specimens of Mr. Lopatecki's writing. I got one of the other pieces yesterday. I got all the specimens of Mr. Lopatecki's writing produced, on two visits to the waste paper basket. I recognize the documents as in Mr. Lopatecki's writing. The first two words, "Deputy-Sheriff," are in my writing. The body is in Mr. Lopatecki's writing. I knew that the first words were in my writing when I came into court.

Maurice Lopatecki, sworn—Exhibits 30, 31, 32 and 33, produced, are in my handwriting, with the exception of the words "Deputy Sheriff."

To a Juror—I don't consider there is a great resemblance between my writing and Dr. Griffin's. There is a certain similarity.

A. J. Woodward called, identified as his, the writing on exhibit L.

Rev. A. J. Beanlands, sworn—I have seen these two photographs of writing before. I know Greek, and a little about Russian letters. (Exhibit 29 produced.) I think I have seen two pages of this. Don't know that I have seen the inside pages.

Mr. Walker—Will you compare the writing with that of the threatening letters, and point out any similarity.

Witness—I do. The likeness struck me the first time I saw them. As a rule the i's are dotted, and the t's crossed by the writer, before he proceeds with the word. There is also a similarity in the k's. In every case the k's are made like a V with a tail, the second stroke commencing from the base of the first, and then the tail is added. The k's of the Greek are similar. I think if a man had a classical education he would be apt to put his Greek k's into his English. The L's in the Greek struck me as being very peculiar. The letter is made in a very facile way, as I never saw it before. (The witness proceeded to illustrate his method of forming the L, and the method used in the letter.) I have seen L's in the Russian made as the letter is made in these letters. In comparing the letters with exhibit 29, I noticed that the i's are frequently made without any first stroke. In the Greek, the m's are made in a very curious way, like an English m with a long tail. A long handle. I could call attention to many peculiarities in the Greek, but I don't know that they would bear on the case.

Geo. Bedford alias "Dan Apples" the notorious, received one month's imprisonment for vagrancy.

Ah Kwong, charged with entering Major Wilson's residence, North Park street, and stealing therefrom a waistcoat and silver watch and chain was committed for trial. Three Fine Portraits.

Mr. J. Savannah, the well known local artist, has on exhibition at Jamieson's, Government street, portraits of Postmaster N. Shakespeare and wife, also of the late Wm. Raybould, ex-M. P. P. They are in India ink. As works of art they are deserving of great credit, the execution showing great skill. As likenesses they are very true, having a soft, natural and life-like appearance. Those who remember the late Mr. Raybould will agree that Mr. Savannae's picture is as near perfect as possible.

Terrible Affliction.

Two more children—little Kate, aged 10, and Etta Rose, aged 5—daughters of Mr. J. J. Austin, died this afternoon of diphtheria, making the fourth death in the family within a week. There still remain five children four of which are afflicted with the disease. There was a strong hope that the little girls who died to-day would recover, but the disease baffled the efforts of the doctors and the faithful nurses. The afflicted parents have the sympathy of the community and the earnest prayers of all that those that still survive will be restored to health.

News From Cherry Creek.

Mr. Morrison, of the Hidden Treasure Mining Co., Cherry Creek, arrived in the city last night and will remain a day or two before returning to the mine. Work is going on energetically at the hidden Treasure. A 95 foot shaft has been sunk and two drifts are now being run from the bottom, both of which are about 25 feet in length. Mr. Morrison has the utmost confidence in the mine and believes that before long, probably by next month, it will be demonstrated that his company has one of the richest things in the world. Five men are kept constantly at work. It is the intention of the company to prepare to work their gravel claims as soon as spring opens.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of Olive Addie Ross, second daughter of John W. and Isabel R. Wilson took place yesterday afternoon from the parents residence, Princess avenue. A large concourse of sorrowing friends attended. The casket, containing all that was mortal of the young child, was covered with beautiful flowers laid on by sympathizing relatives and friends.

Land Slide.

A land slide occurred at Sailor Bar Bluff, on the C. P. R., eight miles east of Yale, by which Peter McPherson and Coombes were killed, and W. Geisler was fatally injured. All were bridge carpenters. This was an old slide, which had given trouble before, and is the one which the C. P. R. are disputing about with the government with a view to having it cut down to a proper angle. There was but slight damage to the bridge.

Italian Skies.

The beautiful fall weather which this part of the province continues to enjoy cannot fail to make a good impression on all who visit these parts. While the east is buried in snow and pinched with the cold, the west is revelling in sunshine and flowers. Only to-day a big bumbeey-e-bee flew into Mr. Salmon's cigar store, across the street from THE TIMES office and was as lively as if this were the middle of summer instead of the last day of November.

Guilty on Six Counts.

The trial of Erwin Gardner, of Washington Territory, for opium smuggling, was commenced in Auburn, New York, on Tuesday. The jury having been obtained the case was opened by the attorneys of the government, who set forth a strong case. In their argument they claimed to be able to prove without a doubt that Gardner and his confederates smuggled into this state from the Dominion, over 3500 pounds of opium between October '87 and February '88. Information received at Seattle last evening stated that Gardner had been found guilty on six counts.

Vancouver's Finances.

Ald. Alexander, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, says the World, in his remarks at the Council meeting, gave a complete summary of the municipal finances up to the 31st ultimo. From this it appears that the total expenditure (either actual or prospective, on account of appropriations already made and in course of application) for the present year was $70,487.49. The gross receipts from all sources were $70,256.93, thus showing an actual deficit of $210.56. For the 10 months of the present year, the spending departments of the city had exceeded the estimates by the large sum of $16,938.54.

Views of British Columbia.

We have been favored by M. W. Waitt & Co., with a copy of their "views of British Columbia and Alaska" which is beautifully lithographed on heavy paper, folded and bound in handsome red cloth. The book was executed in Germany and the various pictures excel in their accuracy and trueness to nature anything of a similar kind that we have seen put upon the shelves of the bookstores for sale to travelers as souvenirs to carry away with them. There are in all about 63 different views, including scenes in Alaska and British Columbia, including such places as the dry dock, the old Beaver, Fort Simpson, the Gorge, scenes on the E. & N. R., Wrangel, Vancouver, the Hot Springs and many interior scenes. They will find a very ready sale, as almost every person who has a friend in the east and almost every visitor who comes to see us will purchase one or more copies.

Death of Mr. George Clark.

Mr. George Clark, of the firm of Fisher & Clark, architects and civil engineers, died at his residence on Second street, Seattle, on Wednesday afternoon, after an illness of ten days. Mr. Clark had been in poor health for a year past, the principal complaint being hemorrhage of the lungs. George Clark was born in London, England, about 1844, and went to the United States in 1870, settling at Omaha, Neb., where he remained for two years, then removing to Marinette, Wisconsin, where he was married to Miss Susan Brown, in 1874. About two years since Mr. and Mrs. Clark removed to Victoria, remaining here a year, and then leaving with his partner, Mr. Fisher, and his wife, for Seattle, where they have remained since. Mr. Clark stood high in his profession, and was much respected by all his acquaintances and friends. He leaves a wife, but no children.

Cross-examined by Mr. Irving—The Greek writing is very fluent. The letter theta is written in an old fashioned way. I heard the expert say he had not compared the Greek. I have made no study of the comparisons of handwriting. I have a knowledge of, and take an interest in Greek. The degree of B. A., London, would mean Bachelor of Arts at the University of London. A doctor of medicine has to pass some examination in arts as well as medicine. In London University, I don't know that you would be obliged to pass an examination in Greek to take a B. A. I don't know that the University of London grants a B. A. I have spoken to Dr. Griffin on two if not three occasions. The subject of his scholarship or his knowledge of language did not come up. I am not very familiar with Latin. I am familiar with Russian letters. I think there are 36 letters in the Russian alphabet. I said the letters in the letters were like Russian because they were more modernized than the ancient Greek is supposed to be. I am not familiar with modern Greek. The letters in the Greek might be used in modern Greek. Many of the letters of the Russian alphabet are alphabetted from the Greek. I concluded that those debatable letters would be Russian or Modern Greek when I first saw them. I had Russian letters written for me to make comparisons with.

A great many of the letters are ancient Greek; I first got the idea that the letters were Russian or modern Greek from their appearances; of Russian I know a little, of modern Greek I know nothing; I compared the characters with letters given me to compare them with.

To a juror.—The letters "T" or "I" stop short.

George F. Langley sworn.—I know Dr. Griffin; he was arrested on a Monday morning; Mr. Dunsmuir and Mr. Whyte came in to look at a couple of prescriptions; they were simply lotions.

To Mr. Irving.—I told Mr. Dunsmuir one of the lotions was rank poison.

To Mr. Walker—One of the lotions contained 60 drachms of morphine; three drachms would contain 120.

Thomas Houghton—I know Benjamin Atherton; I have known him since July; part of the time he has lived with me; with his wife he stayed with me for five weeks; he would do a little work for me; at different times in making statements—

Mr. Taylor—I object to that.

Mr. Walker—What was his character for veracity?

Mr. Taylor—I object to that.

His Lordship—Some people say I can be bought; men may say that of anyone; what possible good can such a question be in a society where men are unfortunately compelled to live?

Mr. Walker to witness—Do you know whether many people know Mr. Atherton?

His Lordship—I think everyone in Court knows him by this time.

Christopher York—Sworn I know Atherton very slightly.

Mr. Walker—Can you give an idea of the opinion of his neighbors regarding the man's veracity?

Mr. Taylor—I object to the question.

Mr. Walker did not ask any more questions and witness retired.

His Lordship—You may ask the witnesses whether they would believe the man on oath.

Mr. Haughton was recalled—I would not believe Atherton on oath.

To Mr. Taylor—I keep a dry goods store; I knew Atherton since before the first of July; I told Dr. Griffin that I was sorry that he was in trouble; Atherton told me that he had a situation on Yates street; he dug some potatoes for me; weeded abed and cleaned out a hen house; he dug eight bags of potatoes in three days; I told quite a number of people that I would not believe Atherton.

Mr. Taylor — You keep a boarding house.

Mr. Haughton—I do not. I keep a store.

Mr. Taylor—Was Mr. Atherton a married man?

Witness—I don't know. I was not at his wedding.

Mr. Taylor—Do you cast a reflection on the man and say that he is not a married man.

Witness—I believe he is a married man; but I was not at his wedding.

His Lordship—Why don't you answer and not try to sneak out of it. You must answer the questions and not be impertinent.

Witness—The lawyer is asking a question which it is impossible to answer.

Mr. Taylor—Can you give another untruth that Atherton told you?

Witness—Yes, he said he had an order on Mr. Sehl given him by Dr. Griffin; he did not present the order.

Mr. Taylor—Can you give any other of his untruths?

Witness—Yes, he said that he had been to Mr. Dunsmuir's office and told Mr. Dunsmuir that there was nothing honorable about him but his grey hairs; he also said that he was entering an action against Dr. Griffin for $10,000; that with other things which I cannot remember made me state that I would not believe Atherton on oath.

Jacob Sehl, sworn—I know Atherton, on several occasions I told him to do less talking and more work; one Saturday night I told him that I would get another man; nothing that came under my notice would make me swear that I would not believe him on oath.

Jerome Church, sworn—I know Atherton; I would decline to believe him on oath.

To Mr. Irving—I came from San Francisco; I am in the commission business on Johnson street; I represent eastern firms. I have been engaged in that business since July; before that I was engaged in Jacob Sehl's store; before that I was employed in San Francisco; I worked about two weeks with Atherton; I knew Dr. Griffin since he started the Social World; was friendly with him; I told Mr. Walker that I would not believe Atherton; my opinion of Atherton's character is based on what people said to me in the store; I had no trouble with Atherton; I do not recollect telling Atherton that I would fix him off; I am not in the habit of making threats and cannot recollect.

To Mr. Walker—I was Atherton's superior; I had little to do with him.

Alex. McDonald called—I know Dr. Griffin; I have never heard him use bad language.

Mr. Walker—What is his reputation amongst his neighbors?

His Lordship—No, that is not a proper question. From your knowledge of Atherton's general character would you believe him on oath.

Witness—I would not.

To Mr. Taylor—I have known Atherton since June 26th; Dr. Griffin and wife boarded at my house; Atherton was around the house with Dr. Griffin; they were together frequently; could not say where they were at times; sometimes they were in their rooms and I attended to my business; Dr. Griffin boarded at my hotel since March 29th; he was a pleasant affable fellow that paid as he goes and sometimes did not pay; York war barkeeper at the hotel and was friendly with the Doctor; I had some sympathy with Mrs. Griffin after the Doctor's arrest; I expressed my opinions pretty freely and partly through that I am here; partly also because I expected to get my board bill; I did not associate with Atherton very much.

Mr. Taylor—I suppose he was blowing too much around the hotel.

Witness—No, he was lying too much.

Mr. Taylor—You really know nothing about this case.

Witness—No, I know nothing about the case.

Court then adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

TO DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Mr. Walker opened the case for the defense and said he knew the jury gave considerable time to this case, and he would only keep them for half an hour. This was not a very long time when it is considered that it meant perhaps ten years for the man in the dock. The learned counsel said Mr. Taylor in opening the case for the defense stated that the evidence would be circumstantial. Mr. Walker read from a book in which one of the most learned judges stated that a jury must be careful in their consideration of circumstantial evidence. The counsel then showed the duty of the presiding judge, the jury and counsels for the defense. Consider, gentlemen of the jury, your feelings if this man is found guilty and sent to the penitentiary for ten years and evidence is brought forward which proves that he was not guilty. He called attention to a case in which a man served a term of 8 years for the crime of arson. A death bed confession made by a man in the United States proved that the convicted man was not guilty. The evidence brought forward in this case was what was called lawyer's evidence. The evidence of Atherton was then spoken of, and the counsel said the prosecution hired detectives, deputy sheriffs and the Victoria police. What did they discover? Mr. Whyte swears to the handwriting and swears that Mr. Woodward's writing is Dr. Griffin's. The most difficult witness to speak about was the expert. He read from the opinion of Lord Campbell to show that skilled witnesses come to the court with their minds considerably warped. Mr. Hyde was handed certain letters a few days ago and said he looked for a resemblance between the letters alleged to have been written by Dr. Griffin. He (Mr. Hyde) brings five letters and shows some similarity between Dr. Griffin's writings and Mr. Lopatecki's. The counsel did not want to cast any imputation on Mr. Lopatecki and did not believe that he had anything to do with the writing or sending the letter, but to show that the prisoner should not be convicted when there is a similarity with the writing of Mr. Lopatecki, this was only one case and to-day another letter was seen by the counsel which bears a close similarity to the letters alleged to have been written by Dr. Griffin. Attention was called to the fact that the expert said the writers of annonymous letters would return to their old style of writing before finishing a letter. The expert did not produce evidence to show that the hand-writing was similar to Dr. Griffin's at the end of them but picked out, in nearly every instance, the first letters in the communications, ignoring the portions where he said a man would return to his old style. Counsel showed the disputed hand writing to the jury and said he hoped they would not fall into the error made by the detectives and try to prove him guilty. They should think it as probable that Mr. Lopatecki wrote the letters as that they should think Dr. Griffin was the author. In one part of the evidence produced the expert said one letter "g" was written by Dr. Griffin whilst he ignores fifty more more "e's" in the letters. The author of these letters might have tried to copy Dr. Griffin's hand. No dishonesty could be imputed to the evidence produced by the expert, but a certain bias was noticeable. The other expert was Atherton and his conduct was well known to the jury. After reviewing the evidence at some length he concluded his speech by asking the jury to weigh well the evidence before them.

Mr. Taylor made a brilliant speech for the prosecution, and reviewed the evidence from beginning to end. His remarks were listened to with wrapt attention by the jury and crowded court-room.

After the conclusion of the address His Lordship charged the jury at some length, going carefully over the evidence.

After the jury retired, Mr. Walker asked His Lordship to recall them and state that if there is any doubt in their minds to give the prisoner the benefit; also that if they were of opinion that the prisoner wrote the letter without intending to carry out the threats, they should also bring in a verdict of not guilty on the first count. The jury retired again at 3:30 and the court adjourned for one hour.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty on the second count, with a recommendation to mercy.

His Lordship—Have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed.

Prisoner—My lord. I am an innocent man. I have this to say, My Lord: I thank you and the jury, my lawyer and friends who are on my side. The same Providence will carry me through that has brought me through this trial, I am as innocent as you, My Lord, sitting on the bench.

His Lordship—I concur with the verdict given. The crime is a most dastardly one. Murder can be punished, but when a man sends a letter threatening to murder he creates a ferment in society besides committing a crime of which there is nothing worse. The jury recommended you to mercy. I sentence you to imprisonment for five years.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

John Sullivan Falls Thirty-Six Feet and is Killed.

At 6 o'clock this morning a man named John Sullivan was killed by falling from the coping at the Esquimalt dry dock. He was employed by the Provincial Government on the Esquimalt road and left his cabin on the dock site to be at his work before 7 o'clock. Deceased walked along the coping as day was breaking and is supposed to have struck his foot against one of the lines which is fastened to a ring in the coping to keep the steamer Idaho in position. He fell into the dock, 36 feet below, and was fatally injured. A watchman on the Idaho heard the unfortunate man fall and called Mr. Grieve, the carpenter at the dock. They raised the man and carried him to his cabin. Police officer J. D. Campbell was called and word sent on board H. M. S. Espeigle. The doctor from the man-of-war hurried to the cabin but could do nothing for the injured man. Shortly after the doctor's arrival Sullivan expired. Dr. Milne was telephoned for and found that death was caused by the fall fracturing every rib on the left side and also a fracture of the skull. It has been the custom for the deceased to walk on the other side of the dock, and it is a remarkable fact that he never walked down on the side where the fatal accident occurred until this morning. When Sullivan left for his work every morning he walked on the coping on the other side. Deceased was aged 60 years and was a pioneer of the province. He was well known in Cassiar and Cariboo, and owned a rich claim on Defoe Creek in the first mentioned place. He worked on the dry dock at Esquimalt from the time of its commencement until its completion. He was a sober, industrious man and was well liked by the residents of Esquimalt, in which place he resided for the last eight years.

Captain Carroll's Dinner.

Captain James Carroll, who for years past has been the skillful navigator of different steamers to and from Alaska, has, says a Tacoma paper, tired of the sea and resigned his position. In honor of this he gave a dinner at Tacoma on Tuesday night to the ship captains in Tacoma's harbor and a few friends.

The officers of the Espeigle give a ball this evening in the naval club rooms, Esquimalt. A large number of invitations have been issued. The orchestra of C Battery band will supply the music.

A Success.

The French Hotel, under the management of the well known epicure, Mr. Escalet, is meeting with excellent success. All speak in glowing terms of the cuisine. The place to get the best dinner in town. Meals at all hours during the day. *
